Material Distinction: How the Mood Collection Masterfully Pairs Solid Teak with Innovative Rope

The intriguing juxtaposition of solid hardwood paired with an airy, open weave is perhaps what makes the Mood collection so captivating and well suited for contemporary outdoor spaces. Designed by Studio Segers for Tribù, the Mood collection is undeniably modern, yet with a distinct organic presence.

With a base of sustainably harvested premium teak, the collection's elegantly curved aluminum seat back is expertly woven in weather resistant polyolefin, creating a cozy, yet resilient embrace.

This brilliant ensemble features rope available in warm earth brown or a striking shade of grey fabric, each pairing handsomely with its natural teak base. If furniture can be both a bit rustic and very sophisticated, our Mood collection is it, says CEO Janice Feldman. The pieces have a relaxed, natural elegance that would be excellent for a vacation house or an upscale country inn. Everything about the collection—the shapes, the materials, the textures—feels welcoming."
