SURFACE AREA

Hardy and beautiful unite at this peaceful oceanfront pool in Cohasset, Massachusetts

BLUESTONE This nonslip hardscape is durable in any weather, says landscape architect Sean Papich. Here, a grid-like pattern of 18- by 36-inch pavers adds visual interest to the yard. "The goal was to minimize the amount of hardscape so the space retained the beauty of the natural landscape," he says.

BEACH STONES Smooth rocks are beautiful repurposed as a patio border: "We collected them from the beach just below the property, and then grouted them individually by hand into the bluestone," Papich says.

IPE "It's one of the densest, most durable hardwoods, and it's resistant to mildew and decay, which makes it perfect for a coastal home," says Papich of the solid Ipe raised deck.

GALVANIZED WIRE MESH To comply with state mandates for pool enclosures, Papich installed a nearly invisible wire mesh fence, framed by bleached cedar posts. "It allows for uninhibited views to the ocean," he says.

MARINE-GRADE ROPE The teak swing is suspended from a side porch ceiling with synthetic marine-grade rope, which adds a nautical element and is tough enough to withstand moisture and mildew.
