On the Vend

In summer 2015, MATTHEW BRINSTON left original paintings around town, hinting at the whereabouts online. Four years later, he's depositing his artwork in a bright red traveling vending machine, which has made appearances everywhere from Good Records' former Greenville Avenue space to Bishop Arts' Harkensback. "I've been having all these crazy ideas about how to get art into more people's hands," says Brinston. Follow the machine on Instagram (@VENDINGVESSEL) to keep up with the nomadic art show of sorts, which also stocks patches, T-shirts, and sweatshirts by Dallas-based streetwear brand IDKIDC. —Caitlin Clark
