HARTMANN&FORBES X MAX HUMPHREY You could say this collection of window coverings brings out the best of the American spirit of design, at least through Max Humphrey's eyes. As his tour bus crossed the continental 48, he drank it all in before settling into his second act: design world darling. Expect to see classic, national park lodge-esque patterns, like a reimagined bandana or 50s kitchen table-style checkers, dripping in primary colors—red and blue, to be sure—tied together with artisanal craftsmanship, in his new collection with Hartmann&Forbes, available through CAI Designs, launching Fall 2021.

JANUS ET CIE X PAOLA NAVONE JANUS et Cie's traditional Italian countryside aesthetic and architect Paola Navone's avant-garde style are a perfect example of opposites coming together in design, with the launch of their new collaboration, Chopstix, an al fresco dining collection. Bold and divergent colors, textures, and materials create a surprising and elevated harmony and a fun vibe. Even the construction of the dining collection reflects a blend of old and new: the macro weaving motif honors ancient weaving techniques while exuding contemporary allure. PORTRAIT BY GIOVANNI GASTEL

"I have pieces of my mother all over this house," she says. "I always loved that chair and my mother always loved Arizona, so it fit perfectly here, and every time I go into the powder room, I think of her."

The kitchen is home to the design pièce de résistance, and the foundation for every subsequent style choice: the intricate tile by Exquisite Surfaces.

"I started with the kitchen floor, I loved the really intense pattern," she says. "Then I kind of pulled everything together off of that, and the curtain pattern actually mimic the mountains outside."

But nothing compares to the surrounding natural beauty that shines through every French door and oversized window, luring guests to the terrace area, set with antique French pavers, and topped with a recreation of Wohlner's long-cherished photo of what she calls "a roof within a roof."

"I carried it around with me throughout this whole project trying to figure out a way to do it," she said, adding that it was her husband's engineering background that ultimately enabled her to bring her creativity to life. "He's the one who really pulled the house together structurally for me," she says. "He helped make all my ideas work." ■

No desert oasis is complete without a beautiful pool. Loungers, covered in Sunbrella fabric, sit underneath umbrellas by Tuuci. On the terrace (right), an ottoman and chairs by JANUS et Cie, covered in Mokum Fabric from HOLLY HUNT, provide a perfect place for a nap or a cocktail. Large textured planters throughout the entire outdoor living area are by DEDON. The outdoor kitchen, with its striking turquoise tile backsplash by Exquisite Surfaces, is kitted out in Sub-Zero and Wolf appliances.

Wohner says, "My husband and I disagreed about this dining table a lot because he kept saying, who has a dining room outside? I said, 'we're lucky enough to be in this climate, we're sitting outside.'"

The master bedroom is filled with pattern and color, such as the velvet border by ROMO adorning the custom linen draperies.

Depicting birds and butterflies, a whimsical wallpaper from Schumacher evokes the transportive ambiance the daughter imagined for her bedroom.

“THE POPS OF COLOR
MAKE YOU SMILE AND FEEL HAPPY.
YOU’RE NOT GOING TO FLIP A MAGAZINE
AND FIND SOMETHING EXACTLY LIKE THIS.”

saddle-like seats add additional island seating, introduce an earthy hand-hewn quality to the sleek flat-front white and gray cabinetry.

A sinuous cocktail table carved from a slab of solid wood likewise adds a sense of warmth to the nearby family room, where a pink and orange ombre rug coordinates perfectly with a purple modular sectional sofa and the large painting over it.

The heady blend also characterizes the bedrooms. In the master suite, for instance, a traditional patterned rug rendered in yellow and plum plays off the chunky grass cloth wall covering, creating a stimulating backdrop for a leather headboard with baseball stitching and walnut side tables.

A bold yellow sofa makes an equally splashy statement in an otherwise black and white TV room. “The pops of color make you smile and feel happy,” Nardi explains. “You’re not going to flip a magazine and find something exact like this.”

That also holds true for the exterior living spaces, which are accessible via wide floor-to-ceiling sliding glass doors, fostering a strong sense of connection between inside and outside. As such, they are furnished with posh furnishings, such as a pair of rocking chairs by DEDON and a graffitied side table by JANUS et Cie, on the second-floor terrace overlooking the interior courtyard.

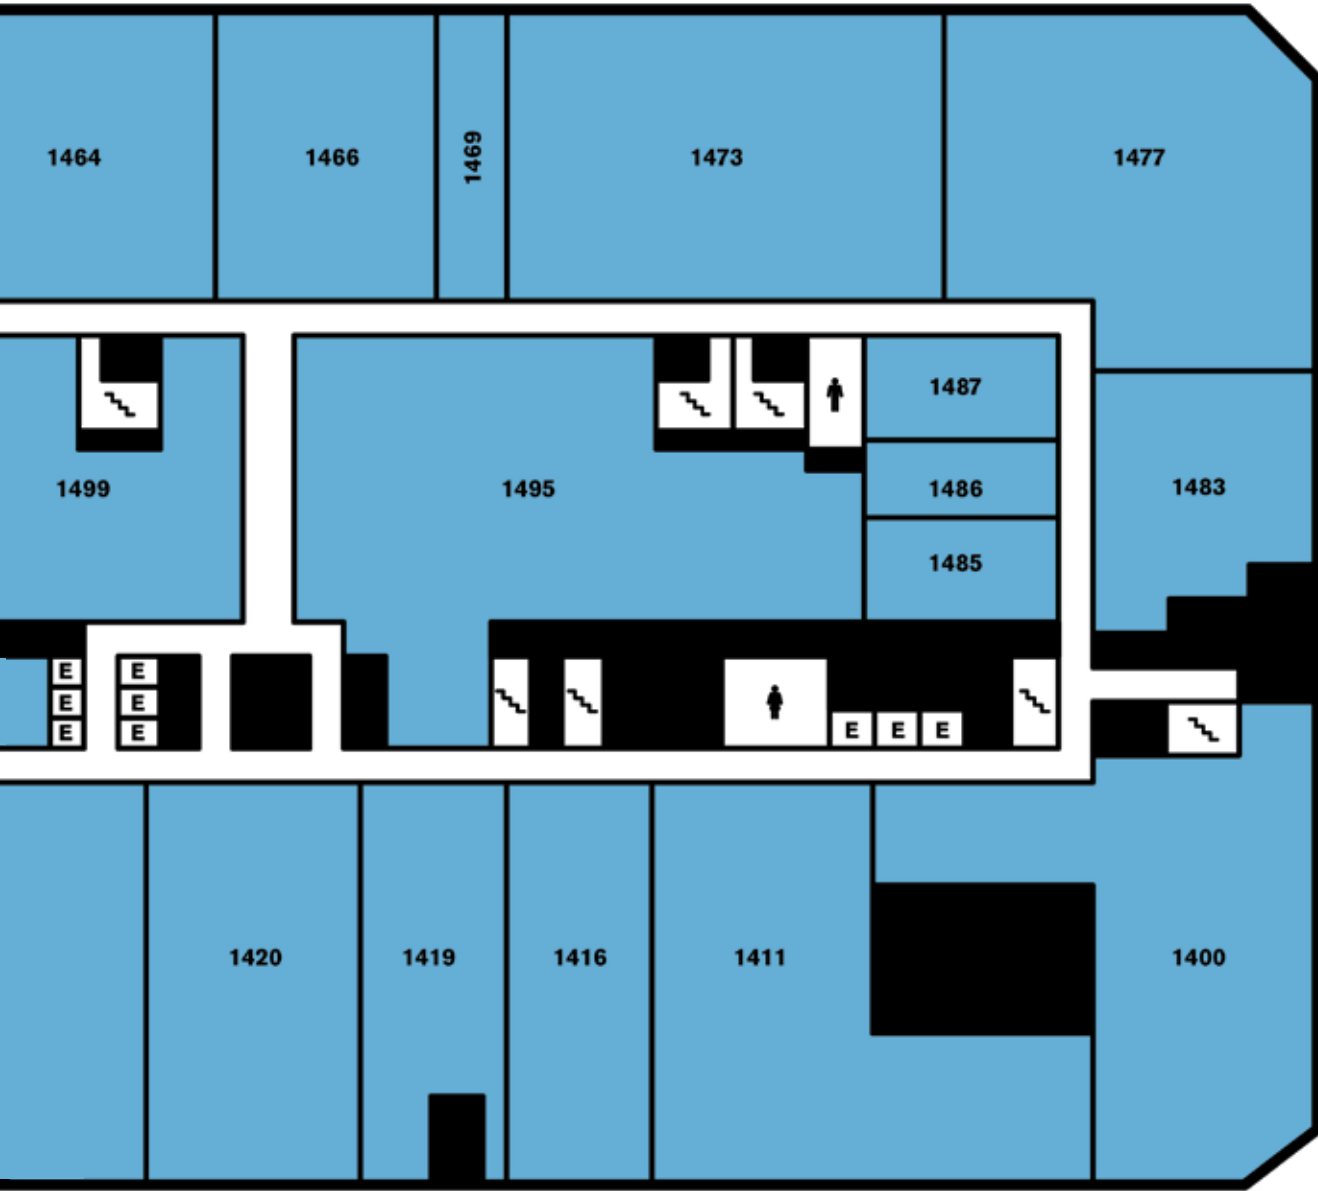

Naturally, the owners were overjoyed when they returned from an extended international trip to find their new gallery-like dwelling ready for their artwork. The designers are equally pleased with the way it turned out, and they predict it will influence the way they approach future projects.

“This project taught us not to be scared to do things totally outside the box,” Almeida says. “We’re thrilled with the way it turned out.” ■

A pair of rocking chairs and a modular sofa, all from DEDON, ensure the second-floor terrace overlooking the courtyard is just as stylish and comfortable as the interior spaces.
