Chic new products celebrate outdoor living

▲ The Koster Collection is named for the Koster Islands, an archipelago off of Sweden's rugged west coast. Designed for the Swedish brand Skargaarden, the line's tables and chairs are made of teak and acrylic rope and built to withstand the country's weather extremes: heavy winds, torrential rain, blistering heat and sub-zero temperatures. skargaarden.com

▲ Poltrona Frau recently launched its first outdoor furniture and accessories collection, available in the U.S. at JANUS et Cie. It includes Sparkler, a lantern designed by Kensaku Oshiro that evokes a traditional Japanese aesthetic. The weatherproof fixture combines a powder-coated aluminum frame with hand-woven polypropylene and is powered by a rechargeable LED. poltronafrau.com; janusetcie.com

Abimis, an Italian manufacturer of bespoke stainless-steel kitchens, takes its creations outdoors with the Atelier line. These all fresco units integrate weather-resistant AISI 304 stainless steel with other durable materials in sleek, clean-lined style.
