stripe, the worn edge of a beloved pillow, and the subtle sheen of an old brass lamp. Designer Michael Del Piero adds, "Gray-toned weathered woods, white clouds, and rough sandy textures are 'rustic beach' simply put!" Working these items into a space lends a feeling of nostalgia and romance. It makes brand-new furnishings feel less awkward and instantly confers a sense of history, adventure, and charm.

Linda Chase

Santa Barbara Design House and Gardens

"The architecture of the Hamptons-style shingle house and its lush gardens called for a complementary design that wasn't too busy," says Chase of her sophisticated outdoor pavilion. Splashes of orange and hot pink offset the creamy white Sunbrella fabric used on the narrow settees and for the portieres to achieve a clean, classic look. A table fabricated from antique balusters serves as the pavilion's centerpiece while a crafted metal chandelier with two crystal orbs punctuates the overhead space. Making a bold statement poolside, a chartreuse chair and ottoman by Janus et Cie is accented by a bright pink pillow.

Tara Seawright

Hampton Designer Showhouse

Seawright envisioned this pool deck as a retreat for a busy family escaping to the Hamptons for the weekend. "I wanted it to feel like a living room outdoors, cozy but big enough to seat a large group." Dressed with patterned Trina Turk curtains from Schumacher, the stark white pergola acts as a cocoon with prime pool views. A long sectional sofa by Barlow Tyrie plus coordinating chairs and loungers encourage guests to kick back and relax. Bright-colored pillows and a striped ceramic vase are striking and practical. An inflatable swan adds a bit of whimsy. ➤
